Orchard of Kings

addie mose

Addie Mose is a part of the new generation of folk rockers to emerge from the Deep South. She is twenty four years old and hails from the streets of Athens, Georgia.

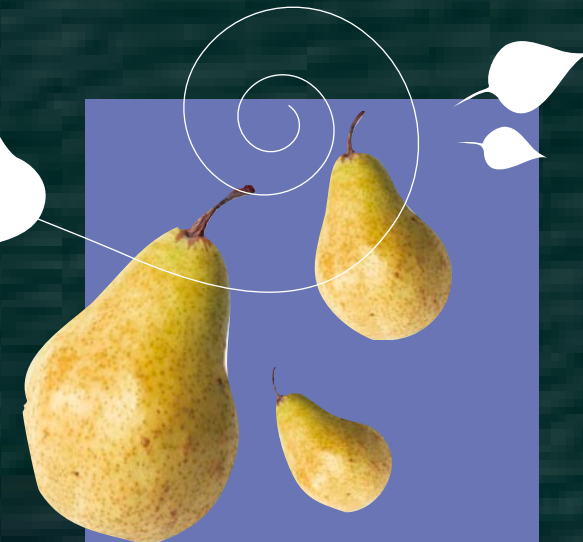

Orchard of Kings

Addie grew up with her 2 sisters and her mother and father. She was surrounded by music at a very young age. Her mother sang in her church choir every Sunday and always filled their home with soul. This is where Addie's interest in music and his desire for the spotlight developed.

For the past 11 years Addie has been writing lyrics and performing in coffeehouses. She pulls her inspiration from nature and the changing of the seasons.

Addie has been recording her debut album in her home studio and performing for the last 2 years, waiting for a breakthrough. She's a natural singer and songwriter whose lyrical skills and delivery transcend her young age.
